Marking a turning point...

Happy Holidays from ARCC

As 2014 concludes, we reflect on our significant advancements.

Over the past year ARCC has:

- Continued to evolve and expand to over 550 members across Canada.
- Hosted Canada's 3rd Applied Research in Cancer Control Conference - another successful conference, featuring over 250 participants from across Canada and 30 oral and 98 poster presentations. Canada's next Applied Research in Cancer Control Conference will be on May 24-25, 2015 in Montreal.
- Progressively expanded its Membership Program, by supporting graduate students and new researchers.
- Connected investigators from various disciplines to share diverse ideas, formulate creative research projects, and develop successful grant applications.
- Expanded our social media presence by improving our LinkedIn group, and started an ARCC Twitter account @CC_ARCC
- Promoted cancer control and the delivery of cancer care through interdisciplinary, pan-Canadian leadership in health economics, services, policy and ethics research, education and knowledge translation.

We are making improvements across the cancer control spectrum in prevention, screening, diagnosis, treatment, rehabilitation, survivorship, palliative care, and end-of-life care. We look forward to 2015 and continuing to be a resource for research and knowledge in health economics, services, policy and ethics in cancer control.

On behalf of the ARCC team, we appreciate your support and interest. We look forward to continuing our successful working relationship. Wishing you a Happy Holiday Season and all the best for 2015.

*Sincerely,
Jeffrey & Stuart*
